What is Federal Work-Study (FWS)?

Federal Work-Study is a federal student aid program that provides part-time employment while you are enrolled in school to help pay for educational expenses.

What are the Benefits of Federal Work-Study?

- Unlike other forms of income, earnings from a Federal Work-Study job do not affect financial aid eligibility for the upcoming academic year. You will still be required to report your work-study earnings on the FAFSA, but they will not count in the calculation that determines your eligibility.
- Federal Work-Study allows you to earn funds to pay for your education, which could reduce the amount of money that you need to borrow.
- You may gain experience in your field of study.
- Typically, your work schedule works around your class schedule. Most work-study jobs are right on campus.

What do you need to know if you are offered Federal Work-Study?

- You may work up to twenty-five hours per week on campus while classes are in session and up to forty hours per week during scheduled college breaks and summer term.
- You must be enrolled in at least six credit hours during each semester you are working. If you are not enrolled in summer, you must be registered in at least 6 credit hours in the upcoming fall semester to be eligible to participate in Federal Work-Study.
- You must have a 2025-2026 FAFSA Application on file with Lakeland. The FAFSA is completed at www.studentaid.gov.
- You must be meeting Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) requirements to participate in Federal Work-Study.
- If you are awarded Federal Work-Study, it may reduce the amount of loan funds for which you are eligible.
- To determine what Student Employment jobs are available on campus, visit the Lakeland Human Resources portal at: myportal.lakelandcc.edu/web/departments-human-resources/jobs.
